

r. Understanding the various religion and their impact

When you welcome migrant plurilingual families in your school, they are coming from different cultures, and they often also have a different religion. As a sign of respect to them, we would suggest that you accept those religions and do not force yours or the religion of the school on them.